What We Are Doing to Help

8. (U) Over the years, the U.S. has played a key role in providing assistance to support a moderate, stable and productive Indonesia. This year USAID provided over $160 Million. During his October 2003 visit to Bali, President Bush announced an ambitious six-year program that will provide over $157 million dollars to help support basic education in Indonesia. USAID also works to improve the quality of basic human services--such as health, promote effective democratic and decentralized governance, and strengthen economic growth and job creation. Programs like this demonstrate the depth of our commitment to working together to build a solid foundation for stability, more robust economic growth and democracy in Indonesia

CT Assistance

14. (SBU) We provided $12 million (FY 03) to create a police counter terrorism unit in a state-of-the-art facility; for FY 04, we will give another $5.3 million and $6 million in FY-05. Those funds are leveraged with a broader $10 million annual police professionalization program and close donor cooperation with Australia, Japan, and the EU. CT investigators from the DS/ATA -funded unit went directly from graduation to work on the J.W. Marriott bombing investigation. FBI investigators work with them, and along with the Australian Federal Police, enjoy unprecedented access and cooperation. We conducted our first CT-focused training for prosecutors in March, and have follow-on training in the works. The DoD-funded Regional Defense Counter Terrorism (RDCT) program complements the Expanded International Military Education and Training (E-IMET) program. It provides training programs for military personnel to increase counter-terrorism capabilities, support the military's transition to civilian oversight and improve its human rights performance. We spent $2.5 million between these two programs in FY 2003, and have budgeted $2.1 million for FY 2004.
